Dist. Atty. Sanderson Has Autopsy Finding GETS FERNALD REPORT

Body of Woman Seen to be Examined in Effort to Solve Mystery.

District Attorney George A. Sanderson of Middlesex county today received a communication containing the result of the autopsies on the bodies of George and Elmer Fernald, who died mysteriously in Everett two weeks ago.

Mrs. Ada McLeod, sister of Mrs. Fernald, who died one week after her husband and father-in-law, has removed from her home at No. 64 Courtland street to No. 52 Robbins street, not desiring to live alone.

"I am entirely willing to have my sister's body examined and everything done to clear away the least vestige of mystery that remains in the three deaths of my loved ones," said she today.

Mrs. McLeod was anxious when she heard that she had been reported as a witness in the case, but she had no objection to the autopsy.

"I want to have this mystery cleared up and my friends know I am trying to do so," she said. "We all have our grief, but I am willing to have my sister's body examined and everything done to clear away the least vestige of mystery that remains in the three deaths of my loved ones."

Mrs. McLeod, while waiting during the investigation into the tragic deaths of her kin, is determined that everything be done to clear up every doubt affecting their deaths.

Principal Points in the Fernald Death Mystery

Elmer E. Fernald died December 25, No. 64 Courtland street, Everett. Accidental burning. Death certificate, Medical Examiner T. M. Darrell. Burial, Jackson, N. H.

George M. Fernald, seventy-seven years of age, died December 27, No. 64 Courtland street, Everett. Cerebral hemorrhage. Death certificate, Dr. R. H. Morris. Burial, Jackson, N. H.

Margaret Fernald died January 2, No. 64 Courtland street, Everett. Chronic nephritis (Bright's disease). Death certificate, Dr. R. H. Morris. Burial, Everett.

January 7—County Solicitor S. W. Abbott of Jackson, N. H., ordered the exhumation of two men's bodies. Poison suspected.

January 8—Autopsy Elmer E. Fernald.

January 8—Autopsy, George M. Fernald.

Brothers of Elmer, who caused action—George S. and Walter Fernald of Jackson, N. H., and Lester Fernald of Stone, Me.

Remark attributed to Mrs. George S. Fernald: "This looks like foul play to me."

Beneficiary of three deaths: Miss Ada McLeod, sister of Mrs. Margaret Fernald, and trained nurse. She gets by will $1,000 in cash and $1,000 insurance on Elmer E. Fernald's life.

Result of autopsy—not made public, but communicated to District Attorney Sanderson. He is awaiting result of chemical analysis of vital organs now at Barnmouth College.

STORM HINDERS TRAVEL BY STEAM AND TROLLEY

WEATHER MAN SEES RAIN COMING AFTER SNOW, AND COLDER TO-MORROW.

Railroad traffic has been somewhat hindered by the snowstorm which is now passing over Boston and New England. The Federal express on the New York, New Haven & Hartford Railroad from Washington was forty-five minutes late. Other express trains were somewhat behind their schedules, owing to slippery rails.

The storm arrived in Boston last night, and, according to the Weather Bureau, the snow will turn to rain.

Snow and sleet made the running of street cars somewhat difficult, and the cars were unable to make schedule time.

Here is the official forecast for the next twelve hours:

"Sleet or sleet and rain, falling with falling temperature; light to fresh easterly to southerly winds, becoming colder by Tuesday."

SON ON HONEYMOON, WELCOMED BY MELBA

NEW YORK, Jan. 14.—Mrs. Melba's son, George T. Armstrong, has arrived from Europe with his bride, who was Miss Ruby Gray, an actress. Miss Melba has leased for the young couple a large apartment in the Barcelona, a family hotel, where the diva is living.

Governor Declines to Answer in Person Summons in Suit to Prevent Boston American's Publication of Dr. Harris's Tucker Bordereau—Case Is on To-day.

Medical Examiner Francis A. Harris's attempt to suppress the publication of his document in the Tucker case, in which he declared that Charles L. Tucker was innocent, and in which he retracted his own testimony, came up for a hearing before Judge Gaskill in the Superior Court to-day.

This suit was for an injunction against the BOSTON AMERICAN to restrain this newspaper from continuing the publication of the article.

This is the second attempt that has been made to suppress the publication of the facts revealed by Dr. Harris in his so-called "bordereau," which was produced at the hearing before Governor Guild for a commutation of Tucker's sentence.

Governor Guild Not Present.

The reason for the extraordinary attempt that has been made to suppress the facts in this case were not divulged in today's hearing. GOVERNOR GUILD, WHO HAD BEEN SUBPOENAED AS A WITNESS BY THE BOSTON AMERICAN, IN THE BELIEF THAT THROUGH HIM IT COULD BE SHOWN THAT THE DOCUMENT WAS OF A PUBLIC NATURE, REFUSED TO OBEY THE SUMMONS. HE SENT WORD TO THE COURT THAT HE WOULD NOT APPEAR, BUT THAT HE WOULD GIVE THE COURT PRIVATELY ANY INFORMATION THAT THE COURT MIGHT DESIRE.

The plaintiff was represented by Attorney Jesse M. Gove and the BOSTON AMERICAN by Attorney Junius T. Auerbach.

Mr. Gove offered a bill of complaint, to which Mr. Auerbach objected, on the ground that it contained allegations intended to support the contention of the plaintiff that the injunction should be made permanent. Mr. Auerbach stated that he summoned witnesses and prepared his defence with the allegations in mind contained in the first bill of particulars filed by the plaintiff last Tuesday.

The court said that he deemed it right to allow the second bill of particulars to be filed.

"Use as You See Fit."

Senior John H. Vahey, who was counsel for Tucker, and to whom the "bordereau" was given by Dr. Harris under the belief that he was about to die, was the first witness.

"Up, Harris told me," testified Mr. Vahey, "that I could make use of the document that I saw it."

The hearing began at 10:25 and at 11:25 Judge Gaskill said that it would take the matter under advisement.

WIFE SHOT, FIGHTS FOR LIFE WITH HUSBAND

Special to the Boston American.

WORCESTER, Jan. 14.—August Gorman, a Frenchman, a freight hauler in the Boston & Maine yards, frantically by Jean Gorman, shot his wife early today, while she was standing in her own front doorway, and then put a bullet into his own head. Though terribly wounded, Mrs. Gorman, who is a strongly built woman, grappled with her infuriated husband instantly and succeeded with him, while three more bullets were discharged from the revolver. Two of them went wild. The last one went into his left knee, probably shattering it there with actual pain.

Mrs. Minnie Folan, a domestic employed by Mrs. Gorman, had come to an upstairs room. The two women were powered the man and took away his revolver. Mrs. Gorman was later taken to the hospital, and she now is in a dangerous condition. Gorman, who was arrested by a police sergeant, and then retained by court on a charge of assault with a dangerous weapon.

The Gormans were married five years ago and have one girl three years old. Mrs. Gorman a year ago obtained a divorce from the wife.

"Do you want boards?" he asked, before the wife recalled him. Then, without giving her time to answer, Gorman, on the wife's side, placed a revolver from the hospital after the shooting here. The wife's side of the door was shot through. The bullet hit her on the left side of the neck and back under the ear.

Though staggered by the shock and pain, Mrs. Gorman instantly clung to her husband, and the struggle for life followed. Dr. Gorman thinks that the next shot or two was aimed at her, but that she had been shot in the back and was on herself.

BORDEREAU READING HALTED BY GUILD

—SAYS VAHEY ON STAND.

James H. Vahey, counsel for Charles L. Tucker, was the first witness called by Junius T. Auerbach, counsel for the BOSTON AMERICAN. As Mr. Vahey took the stand, he was asked to read the "bordereau" to the court.

How to Have Pretty Nails and Fingers

THESE were when a substantial nail brush and a file were considered the only equipment necessary for keeping the finger tips presentable. The paraphernalia required now is extensive, though not necessarily costly, and the girl who knows how to maintain her nails shrewdly can more than save the cost of an outfit in a very short time by doing her own manicuring.

It is best, however, to get plain artificial nails of good quality even if they are not absolutely ideal. The average manicurist has to put up in a little democracy but some people think that when the nail manicure is considered.

If the acetone and cuticle knife are purchased from a dealer in surgical instruments it will be found that the material of better quality and the points more accurate than is usually found in such a set.

In addition to using an emery wood stick with a good point and a "chisel" of good quality for the nail, a piece of chamois leather may be used as a polisher, although the buffer is more convenient.

For keeping the hands white and soft there should be on the toilet table, not tin of glycerine and rose water and one of almond oil and white vasoline.

A cut in one of the little fingers is not as great a deal to the appearance of the hand. The use of some form of a matter of personal taste. It is considered desirable by some people to have a cut that it features the texture of the skin.

A small vial or jar of polish is necessary. With this equipment the house manicurist ought to be able to keep her finger tips in beautiful trim by spending only an hour once a week and a few minutes each morning.

Useful Kitchen Notes

If the upper inside edge of the pan is well greased with butter, chocolate, milk, cream or anything of the kind will never burn over.

Discarded emulsion soap can often be made to look like new by boiling it in the shade of the water with which they are filled.

A little vinegar kept boiling on the fire with citrus or orange peel will prevent the disagreeable odor going through the house.

TO CLEAN KNIVES.

AN easy way to clean knives is to use a small piece of old Brussels carpet, which will wash clean, both being or metal. Simply immerse and rub gently between the fingers, holding the left hand to steady the carpet.

THE UNBUSINESS-LIKE GIRL

BY BEATRICE FAIRFAX

THESE were when two types of the business girl.

Of which type are you? There can be no two opinions as to which girl looks more suitably attired for office work.

Frills and furbelows are as much out of place in an office as they would be in the kitchen.

The main requisites for office dress are neatness, plainness and durability. You may look and answer you please, but let it be plain smartness.

A Horrible Example

In a downtown restaurant where I frequently go for luncheon I have been interested in watching a young woman who also lunches there. She is evidently employed in some nearby office.

Her costume is quite wonderful to behold. Sometimes she trails in with a long skirt suitable for only house or carriage wear. Her waists are filmy, transparent affairs of the prettiest variety. Her hair is marveled to an almost wondrous state of perfection.

Her head is high, and she usually wears a jewelry chain. She looks decidedly unfit for office work, but far too conscious of her own magnificence to keep her mind on her work.

I do not blame any girl for liking to be well dressed; it is quite natural that she should, but unsuitable dressing is not good dressing.

How to Dress

Wear a short skirt, so as to avoid the dust and litter of the office floor. Wear good, sensible shoes, with common sense heels and can drive every one in an office to distraction.

Keep your hands, tucked away for the most part, for Sundays and holidays. A feather-trimmed hat is most unbecomingly everyday wear. It soon grows unbecomingly worn.

Always Be Neat

See that your belt is neatly put on, that your turnovers and cuffs are immaculate, that your shoes are free from spots, your gloves neat.

Remember that you are not engaged by your employer to be an orderly and efficient worker, but to be part of the office machinery and to do your work quickly and accurately.

If you are dressed so as to attract the attention of every man in the office, the office you are getting out of your sphere.

She Thinks Women Ought to Boycott Firms That Give Away Boudoir Secrets in Their Advertising

By Dorothy Dix

"I THINK," said the bookkeeper, "that Marie Corelli has quit bawling men long enough to get a few looks at her own sex, and is calling women a fool ramble."

"How's a man going to cherish a golden tree from his beloved's head if he's filled with a dark suspicion that the hair only belongs to her by right of purchase, and that he's probably spoiling a twenty-five-dollar bang by doing so?"

"Isn't it true, as the matter of fact, that men no longer wear their sweethearts' hair in the back of their watches like they used to do? And isn't this just simply because they have been put wise to the false hair proposition?"

No More Secrets

"No more encouragement is there for a man to fall in love with a woman because of her pretty figure, when the cars are full of pictures showing plumping devices for scrawny women and convulsions for fat ones?"

"If every man in the country doesn't stare at a woman's figure, a straight front as well as a woman does it is because he is blind."

"Then there are other inspiring portraits of women appearing in the pages that would come off even when kissed, and that the reason that men have quit getting up and giving women their seats in the cars, and that they have secret away all the romance that hangs about the female sex, is because that that want gallery."

"When a pretty woman languished into a car and made a feeble dash at a stray man felt compelled to resist, he was in distress, but now, when he sees an appealing woman, he just cuts his eye at the ad, above her head and says to himself, 'Anybody that's on to all of those devices is old enough to stand up for himself.'"

"And he let her do it." "Women don't seem to be the mysterious creatures that they used to be, but they are the most mysterious little feet like mine peeped in and out." "I think you're mysterious with your mind."

"How could they be mysterious with their mind?"

ADVICE TO THE LOVELORN

By Beatrice Fairfax

TRY TO PLEASE HIM. DEAR MISS FAIRFAX: I have been married five years, and the only thing I have done is to please him. I have done it without me. He goes on and on.

I CAN'T really help you, being ignorant of all the circumstances, but think if you can't get your husband to love you, try to please him. If he is a good man, he will be good to you. If he is a bad man, he will be bad to you. If he is a good man, he will be good to you. If he is a bad man, he will be bad to you.

How to Make Your Dishwashing Easy

ANY housewife spends half a lifetime at the sink, and she knows that there is an easy, scientific, mechanical way to do it. It is to use a soap that is not only a good cleanser, but also a good lubricant. It is to use a soap that is not only a good cleanser, but also a good lubricant.
